

S. 2251 amends the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. The President must give advance notice to Congress before transferring any funds for assistance from one country to another.

S. 2252 amends the Foreign Military Sales Act. S. 2252 limits the total amount of surplus material an agency can give to foreign governments.

S. 2253 amends the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961. S. 2253 precludes funding of any military operation outside the borders of the country of the Government or persons receiving the funds unless there is Congressional approval. For approval the President must submit to Congress a copy of any agreement with a country and all of the operational plans.

S. 2254 amends the Special Foreign Assistance Act of 1971 to preclude the use of funds to provide military or paramilitary instruction to Cambodian military or paramilitary forces in Cambodia through advisors paid directly or indirectly by the United States Government.
